I'm trying to become a qualified web developer. Although I'm not really a web designer but I have a good sense in creative web design. I'm passionate for learning programming especially javascript as I'm working with front-end. I also want to learn back-end languages as well. I just want to join your team as intern or junior position to get work experiences(salary is not a worry). I can communicate well with anyone. I'm obedient to elders and respectful to youngers as well. I will learn more skills at work progressively and hope to help your team very much.
